More About the Great Canadian Scare-

MONTRAL, Canada, June 4, 1868.

The Fenian scare throughout the Dominion is increasing instead of abating, and the authorities add to the general fear of an impending raid by the extensive preparations they are making. In this city a flying column of four companies of regulars and two battailons of volunteers are under orders to move at a moment's notice to any point they may be ordered. At Quebec the volunteers have been ordered to draw the requisite amount of ammunition and rations and to keep themselves prepared in every particular for large quantities of ammunition and other war material are being forwarded to that point. At Atheloane Canada, the Fenian sympathizers are jubilant and boast that the news they have of the movements of ested at Sweetsburg yesterday charged with being nian spice. Maps and papers implicating them were found in their possession. One of the men has but one arm; he says that he came from New York

Convention of the National Board of Trade-Committee to Consider the Material Inte-PHILADELPHIA, June 4, 1868.

The National Trade Convention reassembled this morning at ten o'clock—the temporary president, Charles G. Nazro, of Boston, in the chair.

the various delegates were called, and the chairman of each reported the action of the Board he represented taken with reference to the new system of weights and measures. The majority of the gentlemen reported that no action had been taken by their Boards. They awaited some action of Congress. Mr. Henry T. Blow, of St. Louis, presented the following:—

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed by the Pre-ident to consider the material interests of the country and to present briefly those leading features necessary to the shorough discussion of all means necessary to be employed for their rapid development, on a more substantial, connumi-cal and comprehensive basis.

Several gentiemen argued that the resolution was out of order, from the fact that the present organization was but a temporary one.

The Chair ruled that it being only a preliminary subject and one which may be adopted or rejected by the permanent organization it was in order. The resolution was then adopted, and the Chair appointed the following gentiemen on the committee:—Messra Blow, of St. Louis; Hersev, of Portland; Fraley, of Chiladelphia; Green, of Milwaukee; and Davis, of Chiladelphia; Green, of Milwaukee; and Davis, of Mr. Fraley, of Philadelphia, submitted the follow

Mr. Fraiey, of Finiadeiphia, Submitted the following:

Whereas the revenue laws of the United States, now existing were enacted before steam hocomotion, both by land and on the ocean, had revolutionized the manner of conducting the great commercial enterprises, exchanges of the world; whereas the provisions of these laws regard the entry and appraisal of all goods imported for account of parties resident at interior ports to be made at the port of arrival; whereas this prevision of the law, without benefit to any one, by greatly overcrowding certain Custom Houses, by interposing innoceasary delays and exponees, and by necessitating many intermediate agencies at the port of arrival, operates to retard the legitimate current of trade between foreign producers and the consumers of the interior of the country, and thus curtille the revenue of the government by discouraging foreign trade; whereas a bill (786) has been passed by the House of Representatives, designed to remove many of the difficulties interposed by the present laws, therefore ore Resolved, That this organization, the National Board of rade, assembled in Philadelphia, do most urgently soliet of he honorable Senate of the United States, now in session, and arry and favorable consideration of said bill and its enact-neut into a law.

The Chair decided the preamble and resolution at the present stage out of order.

Mr. Fraley moved that they be referred to the permanent organization for consideration. A motion to lay on the table prevailed, to enable the Committee on Bylaws and a Constitution to present their report.

New and Valuable Prizes-Letter from the sul General of Saxony and Baden-List of Auxiliary Societies-Meeting of the General Committee Last Evening.
The list of prizes donated by individuals and societies to be shot for at the approaching Schuetzenfes exclusive of those to be provided for by the committee is daily increasing. Yesterday afternoon a splendid gold watch and chain, hunting case, arrived from honor to the third American shooting festival at New York, 1868, from the Sharpshooters' Society Teutonia, of Boston, Mass." The value of this handsome prize is estimated to be about $150. Mr. F. T. Frey has donated a Damase double barrelled fowling piece, worth $200. Mr. Leopoid Schmidt, Consul General of the King of Saxony and the Grand Duke of Baden, also contributed yesterday a heavy gold Waltham watch and enain, one of the fluest and heaviest manufactured by the American Watch Company. The Consul General accompanied his gift with a letter, dated June 2, in which he states that the two governments of which he is the commercial representative have not adopted any new system of breech-loading arms, but intend to introduce into their armies the Prussian needle gan. This note was in reply to a request preferred by the committee through the Consul some six weeks ago that his home governments would send specimens of the new breech-loaders adopted by them to be tested during the festival in this city. The following German societies of New York and suburish have elected delegates to represent them in the general committee of the festival, and will assist at the procession as well as in the numerous concerts and other festivities to be arranged on the grounds during its continuance—Alienannia. This is certainly a formidable array of German singing and other society, of the society of Williamsburg, Saengerbund of Jersey City, Lietertafel of Melrose and Society Eintracht of Nort with a letter, dated June 2, in which he states that the two governments of which he is the commercial tion:—Independent New York Sharpshooters Cap-tain Dient, forty wembers; German Sharpshooters' Union of New York, Captain Brander, thirty-eight always chain the privilege of donating the first grand prize of honor for the best shot, the thance committee of the Association has been directed to bring this fact to the notice of our Common Council with a view to thouse them to follow this dischange honored example of the Old World. From present inclications and the donations atready in the hands of the committee the value of the prizes to be distributed will exceed the sum of $20,000. The programme for the amusement and general entertainment of visitors is not yet they perfected but the following may be considered as some of the principal features of the feature:—Besides the competition for prizes with rifles at a distance of six huadred feet on fifty-six targets, there will be a theatrical performance every afternoon and evening, yocal and instrumental concers by all the singing societies of the city, since by the American and Northeastern Sacogrationd. Three hands of music will enliven the sir with the soft strains of Mozart or the stirring symphonies of feetaboven, and occasionally with the rollicking menoides of Lanner, Strauss and Orenbach. Danqueting is to be in order every day, and to aid "the feast of reason" to "the how of soull" speeches from channet orators, in English German and French, will not be wanting. The "light fantastic toe" may be "tripped" every evening, and freworks, tableture viewers, athlette feats—the latter executed by the Turners—are determined on. This programme and all the other facts detailed above were commandicated last evening at the terminal Assembly Romas to a general meeting of shareholders and delegates, at which Mr. P. F. Stoffen presided and Mr. Max Morgenthau acted as secretary. The report was received with appliance and sanctioned unanimously. Mr. Washington, like M. Leutze, made his early studies at Dusseldorf.

The St. Louis Democrat, June 1, has the following additional particulars concerning the robbery of the actress Lotta, siready referred to:—

additional particulars concerning the robbery of the actress Lotta, already referred to:

Crabtree, the father, usually drew the money due his daughter and placed it in the hands of his wife. He acted as Lotta's agent, and was frequently known to get on a spree. On Thursday night he was in liquor and had some trouble with his wife, who soratched his face. Lotts interposed and he struck her with his hand. He left the Laclede, where his wife and daughter were stopping, and took a reom for the night at the Paschall House, instructing the night clerk to have him waked for the train which was to heave for the East at half-past six in the morning. He appeared to be very drunk, and meeting with the stage manager told him he had borne the fill treatment of his wife for ten years and could stand it no longer. He said he was sorry be had struck his child, and declared it was the first time in his life that he had been haren to her. He opened his value and showed the notes and bonds which he had taken from his wife's trunk, saying he had been watching for several days for a chance to get possession of them. He said he would return to get possession of them. He said he would return to furope, and take the world casy for the rest of his life. The stage manager remonstrated with him on his conduct, and tried to persuade him to change his purpose, but he remained from, and left on Friday morning with all his daughter's money, and even her jeweiry. He had drawn her salary for the week from De Bar, as we learn, and Lotta was left with only a few dollars in her possession and an unpaid board bill. Lotta can son earn money enough to supply her wants, but to be defrauded out of a whole year's carnings by her own father is a severe blow upon her. No steps have been taken to have Orabitree arrosted; indeed, we do not know that he has committed any crime of which the law takes cognizance, but it is hoped that homething will occur to change his purpose and induce bun to return the process.

AMUSEMENTS.

PRENCH THEATRE.—A most enthusiastic reception was given last evening at this theatre to Mile. Aline Lambele, who made her first appearance before a New York audience as Eurydice in "Orphée aux Enfers," the first and (we may safely say) the best of hrew all the ardor of his first inspiration. Many of besse" were borrowed from it, for Offenbach does esitate to pillage for himself. The part which vening was originally written for Tantin, nine rears ago, and "Orpheus" met with such in uccess as to be played five hundred and fifty imes in Paris and four hundred times in Berlin times in Paris and four hundred times in Berl Phe opera bought seems to be gaining ground evel where. Mile. Schneider has just been engaged Eagland to play four first rate operas boughts..." Grande Duchesse," "Corphée," "La Belle Hélen and "La Barbe Bleue." Last evening one of times interesting features of the performance was tidue! In the first act, with M. Decré (Orpheus), wit accompaniment obliquito on the violin by this gelisman, who is the tenor of the company. Milbambelé's pastoral aria was both applauded a moring and ending with their waking up to shale account of the company of the excitement of an Olympic cancan.

George's Grand Concept. On Wednesday eve GIORZA'S GRAND CONCERT. -On Wednesday even

and Fourteenth street, a complimentary concert wa Powell-daughters of Powell the historical painter and Miss Maria Pitkin, private pupils; by Madan Phyfe and the Misses S. Burgy, L. E. Burdett, C. O'Connell and Maggie Mahoney, and by the following professional artista: — Madame Camilia Urso, violinist: Signor Massimiliani, tenor; Signor Bellini, baritone; Signor Passati, basso cantante; Signor Gariboldi, ductor. A large and stylish audience was present. The programme opened with a pretty quartet from "Campana," by the two Misses Powell, Miss Burdett and Mrs. Phyfe, the execution of which prepared the house for the success of the whole bill of nineteen different selections. The aria from Verdi's "Attlia," by Gariboldi, caused the very appropriate remark from a critical lady, "There's a splendid basso tot dryesco," "The Dream," by Camilla Urso on the violin, naturally led to the reflection that if Ole Bull were only a younger man, and all other considerations were harmonious to this end, what a match this Urso (we are almost tempted to say this charming Ursa Major on the fiddle) would be for the great Norwegian. Glorza's "Ripeti che m'ami" was neatly given by Miss F. Powell, and the closing auarneaty given by Miss F. Powell, and the closing auarneaty given by Miss F. Powell, and the closing auarneaty maica this tried (we are amost tempted to say this charming tried along on the fiddle) would be for the great Norwegian. Glorza's "Ripeti che m'ami" was neatly given by Miss F. Powell, and the closing quartetto from Verdi (that diamond brooch of "Rigoletto") by Miss F. Powell, Mrs. Phyfe, Massimiliani and Belini, made the welkin ring with the echoes of the old Academy. In part second, in the romatnza from "Mattel" "Non è ver." Miss F. Powell fairly earned the enthusiastic receil of the house, as in "L'Elisir d'Amore" did Miss Fanny and Fossatt. Giorza's "Nightingale Folka," by Miss Burdett, was neatly and delicately rendered, as was "La Stella" by Miss Pitkin, and the duetto from Ricci's "Chiara of Rosenberg," sung publicly for the first time in America, as done by Fossatt and Garlboldt, was as inspiring as the rattling rigmarole of "Figaro" or le galant sparkles of "La Belle Hélene." The chorus by the company, the finate of "Ernani," given with a will, ended the pleasant entertainment. From this test of his pupils Glorza had every reason to rejoice with them over the cake and wine.

Theatre Comique.—The programme for the pres-

THEATRE COMIQUE,-The programme for the pres at week at this popular place of amusement is as varied as it is attractive, and combines both negr and melodramatic sketches. Besides the usua variety of songs, dances, acrobatic exercises, classic groupings and acrevolante flights-the latter by Mons. Airec, and graceful as they are dangerous-Trial," a laughable picture of justice, and "The Nymphs of the Caribbean Sea," a burietta, full of improbable situations, elegant dancing, sweet music and magnificent scenery. The "Trip to Paris" introduces, during the Exposition, two American negroes, Josh Brown and his companion, Geo. Williams, to the Indy of a house with apartments to let. This lady is in love with a gendarme, who is, on every interruption, placed in a coal box, where he is unwittingly floured by the American gentleman and subsequently arrested, his gay uniform being made black and white from coal and flour, by countrades, as a robber of the most daring character. The situations are indicrous in the extreme. "The Mutton Trial," by Charley White, is exceedingly laughable. Joseph Sheppard, a negro of the darkest fine, is charged by a pourpous gendeman of the colored personadon, Old Smarl, with laving broken into his sheep. "Joseph is arrested and is placed on trial before Judge Bedford. His counsel, a Tombs lawyer: one Howe (whom Old Smarl recognizes as "de gemman wot stole dem sebenteen yards of clof"), in an eloquent speech, worthy of his prototype, Douglass, appeals to the scent's by counsel of "persons acquitted on insufficient evidence," at a well known restaurant in the city. The Judge succeeds in confusing the complainant, and on the conclusion of the appeal in behalf of the prisoner the evidence is reviewed in a very amusing manner by the "Bench." The result of the investigation into the "law of the case" turns upon the fact that "the prisoner has a mother interty-seven improbable situations, elegant dancing, sweet must ing until twelve o'clock at night to support him, and therefore it would be unjust to deprive her of this solace!" This sketch of Mr. White was received with roars of laughter. For fun, innocent amusement and variety, "from grave to gay, from ridiculors to subline," we recommend to pleasure seekers, it they are not too hypercritically inclined, an even-ing at the Theatre Comique.

Galignorst thus "pitches into" Picard's old comedy, "La Petite Ville," revived at the Odéon, Paris —The personages who people this "Petite Ville" are as consupered as their doings. There is the inaquishing old maid with her sternal reproaches, and the old country coquette; the provincial bore, structing about like Roland the Just, with ribbons in his aboes and a managing mamma, the best character in the play. The tender parents who bring up pretty plants to garnish Belgravian drawing rooms might profit by her code of instructions to her daughter Flore.

Two Penusylvania detectives who arrived in this city some days since arrested yesterday a man named C. A. Ingaisall on suspicion of being impli-cated in the robbery of a wealthy family residing to the oil regions of Pennsylvania. The robbery alluded to, it will be remembered, occurred in the early part of the present year, and the circumstances under which it was committed were inces:—The house of the family robbed was entered by a flumber of men, the immates were bound hand and foot and the
